ENGL 189
Online -- Cross Session – June 6 – July 29

Race, Rap and Power:
Hip Hop In Lyric, Literature and Film

“What one does realize is that when you try to stand up and look the world in the face like you had a right to be here, without knowing that this is the result of it, you have attacked the entire power structure of the Western world.” - James Baldwin, London, 1969

“People treat Hip-Hop like an isolated phenomenon. They don’t treat it as a continuum, a history or legacy. And it really is. And like all mediums or movements, it came out of a need. - Mos Def

“Every time I speak I want the truth to come out. Every time I speak I want a shiver. I don’t want them to be like they know what I’m gonna say because it’s polite. I’m not saying I’m gonna rule the world or I’m gonna change the world, but I guarantee you that I will spark the brain that will change the world.” — Tupac Shakur, MTV, 1994

“Rap is black America’s CNN.” Chuck D

The hurt becomes repetition, the love almost lost that
Sick venom in men and women overcome with pride
A perfect world is never perfect, only filled with lies
Promises are broken and more resentment come alive
Race barriers make inferior you and I
“Pride” Kendrick Lamar

What relationship does the political power of the Hip Hop movement have to the corporatization of rap as a genre, and how has that affected racial politics in America in the last thirty years? We will look at a wide variety of texts in this course, including literature, film, lyrics and video in order to discuss Hip Hop and Rap as aesthetic movements and genres, and how they are viewed as both empowering and marginalizing in their commodification in the US.

In this course you will be asked to read and then to think critically about what you have read. You will also be asked to articulate and make claims about your interpretations in your writing and participate in collaborative discussions and class debates which will help replicate the in-person campus experience in terms of engaging with fellow students. These discussions and debates will require all students to weigh in and often result in more fulsome engagement than in-person discussions, which can be a benefit of online learning.

The overall frame around any of our inquiries in this course is the development of critical thinking and writing skills. You will be asked to submit a number of written assignments, which vary and are all designed to serve as opportunities for you to refine your analytical and argumentative writing and further your confidence in your own voices and opinions.

General Policies:

Course Commitment:

Please keep in mind that this three-credit course is requires that each student engages in a sustained and intensive eight weeks, in which they need to post several assignments each week on deadline. This commitment requires consistent access to Wi-Fi and engaged self-direction throughout!

Grading

- All assignments are to be posted to the Canvas site for the course on the due date and time (EST)
- Assignments submitted after the deadline will be dropped 10 points; assignments submitted 24 hours late will be dropped 20 points.
- A grade of “No Credit” or 0 points will be given for assignments submitted later than 24 hours late.

All students are encouraged to avail themselves of the free services at the University’s Writing Center: http://www.georgetown.edu/departments/english/writing/wcenter.html.

Responses:

- You will need to submit eight (8) informal response papers – one a week - by the end of the course.
- Criteria and due dates for these responses are available on the Assignments tab on our Canvas site for the course.
- No late submissions will be accepted.
Canvas Discussion Board and Debate Assignments:

- You will be asked to respond to a prompt and then engage with your classmates via the Canvas Discussion Board format eight (8) times during the course.
- Dates are on the schedule and will require completion deadlines.
- These discussions/debates are designed to encourage thoughtful and productive engagement among the classes that otherwise will never meet as a group, and to enable everyone in the class to articulate opinions and make points about the material in the course and how they are relating it to their lived experiences while taking it.

University Policies

All Georgetown University policies, as stated in the Undergraduate Bulletin, will be observed: http://www.georgetown.edu/undergrad/bulletin/.

All students are required to be aware of the University’s Honor Code regulations: http://www.georgetown.edu/undergrad/bulletin/regulations6.html#standards.

If you believe that you have a disability that will affect your performance in this class, please contact the Academic Resource Center (http://academicsupport.georgetown.edu/) for further information. The center is located in the Leavey Center, Suite 335. The Academic Resource Center is the campus office responsible for reviewing documentation provided by students with disabilities and for determining reasonable accommodations in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and University policies.

Georgetown University and its faculty are committed to supporting survivors of sexual misconduct, including relationship violence, sexual harassment and sexual assault. University policy requires faculty members to report any disclosures about sexual misconduct to the Title IX Coordinator, whose role is to coordinate the University’s response to sexual misconduct. Georgetown has a number of fully confidential professional resources who can provide support and assistance to survivors of sexual assault and other forms of sexual misconduct.

These resources include Jen Schweer, MA, LPC, Associate Director of Health Education Services for Sexual Assault Response and Prevention, (202) 687-0323 (jls242@georgetown.edu) and Erica Shirley, Trauma Specialist Counseling and Psychiatric Services (CAPS), (202) 687-6985 (els54@georgetown.edu).

More information about campus resources and reporting sexual misconduct can be found at http://sexualassault.georgetown.edu.

Sensitive Material

At times this semester we will be discussing events and issues that may be disturbing, even traumatizing, to some students. If you ever feel the need to refrain from reading, listening to or viewing a specific text, please feel free to do so. Also be in touch with me so that we may find a substitute for you to engage with that is more suitable.
